ESCAPE FROM THE NEW COUNTY JAIL

THREE PRISONERS SAW THEIR WAY TO LIBERTY

MAN UNDER DEATH SENTENCE

Gives Alarm Promptly and Authorities Believe They Will Soon Be Back In Their Cells.

(From Thursday's Daily)

A bar in one of the rear windows of the new jail was sawed out this morning and three prisoners, Ed Lascoe, charged with horse stealing, Kirk Bush, who shot John Henry Cole in the mouth, and Merritt Coleman, charged with shooting in sudden heat and passion and carrying a concealed deadly weapon, made good their escape.

The delivery occurred within a very short time after the men had eaten breakfast. After finishing the meal the three prisoners were detailed to sweep up the corridor which surrounds the steel cells in which the other prisoners were confined. They evidently had all their plans fully mapped out and the saw in readiness, for it was only a few minutes until Harrison Alexander, who is under death sentence for criminal assault upon a white woman at Greenville, but whose case has been appealed, gave the alarm. When Jailer Johnson arrived the negroes

PLANT BEDS ARE RUINED BY BEING SOWN WITH GRASS AND CLOVER SEED.

The recently sowed plant beds of W. F. Cox's tenants and W. R. Fourquean, of Gracely, were plentifully sprinkled with grass and clover seed a few nights ago by unknown parties. This is the latest plan adopted by plant bed destroyers for the purpose of ruining plants. The grass and clover seed grow much faster than the tobacco plants and soon choke them out. Last year the method was to scrape the plant beds with hoes. It is reported that still other farmers have suffered in a similar manner, but these rumors have not yet been verified.

POSTOFFICE IS VERY FLOURISHING

CLERKS HAPPY OVER RAISES IN SALARIES

SOME FACTS OF INTEREST

Postal Transactions in Hopkinsville As Shown in the Reports Made By Major Breathitt.

The telegram to the New Era yesterday that five clerks in the local postoffice would receive a nice raise in salary under the recent act passed for this purpose, caused beaming faces in this department of Uncle Sam's service. This provides for every clerk in the office and as the rural route and city free delivery carriers have already been raised, every employee of the office with the exception of Postmaster Breathitt and Assistant Postmaster Gus Breathitt, will get more money in the future. The lowest salary which is now paid in the local postoffice is $66.66 per month.

The postmaster and assistant postmaster are not worrying over their not getting any increase for their pay is based on the revenue of the office and it is already assured that the total receipts for the year ending April 1 will be more than enough to secure another hundred dollars for Maj. Breathitt and a proportionate amount for his assistant. In or-

GOOD MEN AND TRUE

Guthrie, Ky., March 19, 1907.

To the Kentucky New Era:

The executive committee of the Planters' Protective association met at Guthrie, Ky., on Tuesday, March 12. This proved quite a profitable meeting in many respects. After a thorough discussion of the affairs of the association, and a letter showing that it would be some time yet before Mr. Ewing would be able to take up his work, even after coming home, it was decided to elect an advisory board to take charge of affairs during Mr. Ewing's absence, and until he could take it up again. Mr. J. B. Jackson, Sr., of Logan county; Dr. J. W. Dunn, of Robertson county; and Mr. Polk Prince, of Montgomery county, were unanimously elected to this place.

Mr. Jackson is loved and respected by every member of the executive committee for his gentleness and goodness; with these he combines all the characteristics that go to make up an honorable, influential citizen.

Dr. J. W. Dunn is regarded as one of our most conservative, substantial men. He has studied all phases of the work necessary for the success of the association and his position on all questions is sure to be well taken.

Who in the Black Patch does not know of the faithful, earnest work of Mr. Polk Prince, the "war-horse" of Montgomery; he has battled long and strenuously in a county which tried man's soul more than any in the district, and with a success that has made his county the banner county.

The election of these men gives general satisfaction, and this position of trust they will hold until Mr. Ewing returns and signifies his readiness for the work.

To say that these men are elected, is enough; we as members feel that nothing will be left undone that would add to the interest of the 50,000 people they represent. So give them your hearty co-operation along all lines.

From Day to Day

Hopkinsville is in no immediate danger of being subjected to the troubles of a street car strike.

At a few moments notice, Hon. A. O. Stanley was substituted as speaker Wednesday night at the Evansville Business Men's Association's annual banquet in the place of Congressman Adam Bede who had missed railroad connections. The Evansville papers say the Kentuckian made a brilliant, witty and eloquent address. There was nothing, however, in his speech to indicate that he was thinking of those garden seed he promised to send us.

Appropos of the Kitties:

Col. Thomas M. Barker, has improved very much during the week, says the Pembroke Journal and the chances for his ultimate recovery are very favorable. This is glad news to his large circle of friends.

A movement has been started in Nashville, Tenn., to have the people of that city vote on the saloon question next May. It is said former Senator Carmack has expressed his readiness to lead the fight for the temperance people.

The $25,000 Young Men's Christian Association building at Madisonville, will be ready for occupancy the first of next month. The Western Kentucky Y. M. C. A. convention will be held in it April 12. The Hopkinsville Y. M. C. A. building will be completed 1 J PQ SS, V, L12s

You should be careful in days like these about venturing out of doors without preparation for the weather. If you are coming as far down town as the postoffice, it would be well to bring along overshoes, a negligee shirt, ear muffs, an umbrella, a heavy overcoat and a palm leaf fan.

J. A. Bishop, of Lexington, Ky., says he is forty three years of age and has had only nine birthdays, having been born on Feb. 29, 1864. He has been heralded as the only man in Kentucky who can boast of this record. Hanson Penn Diltz, the talented newspaper man and author of this city, was also born on the twenty-ninth of February, but he will not state in what year. He blushing admits however that he can equal the record held by Mr. Bishop and that he can go him at east one better.

RACED WITH DEATH

SPECIAL TRAIN HAD THE RIGHT OF WAY

(From Friday's Daily)

The fastest run which has been on the Louisville & Nashville for a long time was that from Jacksonville Fla., to St. Louis yesterday by special train carrying Arthur Downing to the bedside of his father who was reported to be at the point of death.

The train which was made up of two sleepers and a baggage car and drawn by engine No. 8, with Bob Cummings at the throttle and conductor B. B. Hackney in charge, passed through here last night at 7:04. It left Jacksonville yesterday morning at 6:10, thus making the 612 miles to this place in 12 hours and 56 minutes or a little less than a mile a minute. The train stopped three times before reaching here to change engines, but except for these stops it passed through all stations without slackening speed in the least, it having the right of way over everything else on the road, and the operators all along the line having been ordered to have the tracks clear for the special.

Mr. Downing is said to be a very wealthy merchant. The special for the trip cost him $2,500.

SKIN TORTURES AFFLICT CHILDREN

Obstinate Case of Eczema Covered Little Girl's Limbs with Running Sores—Poison Oak Made Boy's Hands and Arms a Mass of Torturing Sores—Sufferers Soon Relieved and Completely Cured—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble."

"In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointing them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Resolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up. So we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor. Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

LET MOTHERS KNOW

STRIKE HAS ENDED

STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES BACK AT WORK

Loss To the Company Will Aggregate $50,000.—Full Service Is Resumed in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15.—By a unanimous vote last night the 800 striking union employees of the Louisville Railway company decided to accept the terms agreed on by their executive committee and the officers of the company.

All the strikers returned to work this morning, and the full service in both city and suburban lines was resumed. The loss to the railway company will aggregate $50,000.

The strike began at 5 o'clock last Sunday morning and caused a practically complete tie-up of all the company's lines while it lasted.

The negotiations for peace were resumed yesterday at the offices of the railway company, at Twelfth and Jefferson streets, while the wild-est riot that has occurred since the strike began was at its height only five blocks away. The roar of the mob and the occasional crack of a pistol could be plainly heard at the offices and doubtless hastened the negotiations. The conference was participated in by President Minary, of the railway company, the executive committee representing the strikers and committees from the commercial bodies and the Greater Louisville Exposition. After a lengthy discussion the committee and the men came to terms conditional on their ratification by vote of the union.

The terms provide for an increase of from 18 to 20 cents an hour for new men and 22 cents an hour for all employees after the first year; 25 cents an hour overtime; at least thirty minutes for lunch; all strikers to be restored to their old positions and an open shop for the company in reference to the hiring of new men.

He expired suddenly in the lobby of the Midland Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., in which city he had made his home for many years.

Col. Crafton was 84 years of age. He was at one time a very successful business man of this city and was a partner in the mercantile trade with the late William Ellis, father of Lee Ellis.

He was an uncle of Judge Joe McCarroll and had many relatives and friends in Christian county.

STOLE MONEY SACK

MRS. CLARK ROBBED OF ABOUT FORTY DOLLARS

Strangers, Who Were Using Telephone, Are Believed to Have Lifted The Cash.

A sack containing about $40 was stolen from Mrs. E. A. Clark's grocery on North Clay street late Saturday afternoon, while the proprietress' back was turned.

Mrs. Clark says she doesn't know who took the money, but thinks it was one of two strange men who came into the store and one asked to be allowed to use the telephone. The money was in the desk, the lid of which was not fastened. Mrs. Clark says she thinks that one of these men saw her put some money which she collected while they were in the store, into the sack and then put this into the desk. The police are working on the case.

Anderson-Albright.

Miss Mary Anderson and Mr. Ernest Albright were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony Sunday afternoon. The marriage was a pleasant surprise to most of the friends of the popular young couple, as only a few knew in advance the date of the nuptials. The ceremony was impressively performed by the Rev. H. D. Smith at the Christian church parsonage, at half past four, and the happy couple left at 5:18 for Nashville, Tenn. The bride is the lovely and accomplished sister of Messrs. Charles and A. B. Anderson. The fortunate young bridegroom is a successful young business man of Nashville, Tenn., and is connected with the O. K. Houck Piano Company. He was formerly in the piano business in this city, and his parents reside at Mt. Vernon, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Albright will make their home in Nashville.

Creators At Louisville.

Creators and his band appeared regularly in Louisville for theatres and playing a summer engagement of two weeks every summer in the open air at Jockey Club Park. Last summer, however, his other bookings were so numerous that he was unable to reach Louisville. Consequently, he has been engaged this year for fifteen days at the greater Louisville Exposition and for fifteen days at the opening of the new White City park in May. This speaks well for Creator's popularity among the music lovers of Louisville.

LUCIAN CARR DEAD

EXPIRED SUDDENLY AT HOTEL IN CLARKSVILLE.

Had Spent Sunday With Friends In South Christian.—Popular Traveling Man.

(From Monday's Daily)

Lucian Carr, of Princeton, one of the most popular traveling men in the state, died suddenly last night of an apoplectic stroke at the Arlington hotel in Clarksville.

Mr. Carr had spent Saturday in Hopkinsville and went yesterday with friends to visit Ed R. Tandy at the latter's South Christian farm, and seemed to be in the best of health and spirits. Last night he went on to Clarksville, arriving there about half past seven o'clock. Shortly after he reached the hotel his death occurred.

The remains were taken today to Princeton where the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, conducted by the Rev. George C. Abbott, rector of Gracechurch. The deceased was about fifty years of age and had many friends and admirers in Hopkinsville. He was unmarried. He represented the Robert Rels & Co. wholesale men's furnishing house of New York.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.—John W. Yerkes today reiterated his determination not to be the Republican candidate for governor in Kentucky.

How's This For A Foot?

The pair of No. 16, double E last patent leather shoes, which were offered free to any man who could wear them, have been awarded to John Seargent, of Salubria Springs. Mr. Seargent, who is Christian county's prize "big man," tried on the shoes several days ago and they fit him perfectly. The manufacturers were promptly notified and yesterday a letter was received from them, telling Mr. Peach to give the shoes to Mr. Seargent with their compliments. They stated further however that they had been making this offer for a year and this was the first time they had ever had to give away a pair of the shoes.

Mr. Seargent is well known throughout this country, and is proud of his immense size. He stands six feet eight inches in height and is big every other way in proportion.

Mr. Compton Preached.

The Rev. T. N. Compton preached two interesting sermons at the Baptist church Sunday. Rev. G. W. McPherson, the regular supply, will remain another week in Owensboro where he is conducting a successful revival. Sunday morning, at the time when the pastor, Rev. M. A. Jenkins, was preaching in Jerusalem, Mrs. Barksdale Hamlett, at his request, sang beautifully "The Holy City."

BARS THE CATTLE

SHIPPED FROM TEXAS FEVER STATES IN SOUTH.

Quarantine is Declared by the State Board of Health.—Federal Inspection Needed.

The state board of health, at a meeting of its executive committee, has issued a proclamation of importance to southern cattle interests. Practically it means that cattle from the "Texas fever" region, south of Kentucky, can be shipped only to Louisville, as this is the only place in the state where federal inspection is maintained. The proclamation follows:

Whereas, information has come to this board through the bureau of animal industry of the United States and from other sources that a contagious and infectious disease among cattle of the bovine species, known as Texas fever, is prevalent in the States south of Kentucky and endangers the cattle interest of this state.

Therefore, be it known, that the state board of health of Kentucky, acting under the express powers conferred upon it by law and in cooperation with the bureau of animal industry by the United States, hereby notifies all stock yard companies, shippers and drivers of cattle and others that an agreement has been effected between the board and the United States department of agriculture that on and after March 15, 1907, cattle of the bovine species from points below the federal quarantine will not be admitted within the boundaries of this state for any purpose except for immediate slaughter at points where federal inspection is maintained, and the southern boundary line of the state of Kentucky and Mississippi river are hereby established as quarantine lines, beyond which cattle from the infected area shall not be brought, provided that this proclamation shall not apply to cattle being shipped through the state under the supervision of the bureau of animal industry of the United States.

Given under our hands and the seal of the board, this March 11, 1907.

J. M. MATHEWS, President,
J. N. McCORMACK, Secretary.

KILLS CATARRHAL GERMS.

Breathe Hyomei's Medicated Air and You Will Soon Be Well.

If you have catarrh in the nose, head or throat, with offensive breath, coughing, irritation of the throat, raising of mucus, difficulty in breathing, sneezing, husky or hoarse voice, discharge from the nose, tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, especially at night, begin the use of Hyomei at once.

Its healing medication breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, will give quick relief in all catarrhal troubles and its continued use will kill the catarrhal germs, and drive them from the system.

By using Hyomei you get in your own home the same results as though you lived out of doors in the Adirondacks of the Colorado mountains. The germ-killing properties of Hyomei reach the most remote air cells of the respiratory organs, soothing and healing any irritation there may be in the mucous membrane, and killing all catarrhal germs.

Here in Hopkinsville where Hyomei has been known and sold, there are many who freely attest its wonderful powers, but the best testimony that can be offered in favor of Hyomei is the guarantee that L. L. Elgin gives with every outfit he sells, "money back if it fails."

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50c, making it the most economical treatment for catarrh as well as the only one that is sold under a guarantee to refund the money if it fails to cure.

March 15, 22, 29.

FARMERS BACKWARD ALL OVER KENTUCKY IN SPRING WORK

The Wet Weather, Says Commissioner of Agriculture, Has Proved a Serious Handicap.

The winter has been an open one, with quite an excess of rain and moist weather. But little outdoor farm work could be done. A few days of good weather in February enabled some farmers to sow spring oats and burn plant land. Unless the month of March furnishes some good weather for outdoor work, the farmers will be very much behind in planting their spring crops.

The indications are that the usual acreage of corn will be planted. The acreage seeded to wheat last fall seems to be a little short of the year before. The condition is practically the same. Winter oats do not seem to be as popular as they were some years ago, and there is quite a falling off in acreage. The same might be said of rye, but not to the same extent. The growing of barley is confined to a few counties, but the usual acreage seems to have been sown last fall. The farmers are somewhat behind in burning plant land, owing to the continued wet weather. Nearly two-thirds of the Burley crop of tobacco is still in the hands of the farmers and unsold. Of the dark type, about two-thirds is sold, leaving only one-third unsold in the hands of the planters.

Grasses have stood the winter well and are promising for early grazing and for hay.

Live stock seems to have gone through the winter in good condition. There is quite a falling off in the number of both sheep and hogs, caused by the high prices of both. The incentive to sell when prices were high was too great for most farmers to resist, and in many cases they sold off too closely.

There seems to be plenty of corn and roughness on hand to finish the winter.

HUBERT VREELAND,
Commissioner.

Given $300 By Jury.

The jury in the case of Henry Tandy, colored, vs. the Illinois Central railroad company returned a verdict yesterday afternoon in favor of the plaintiff for $300. Tandy alleged that he was ordered to board a work train, the crew of which he was a member, but that before he had time to get aboard, the train was started throwing him to the ground and severely injuring him, for which he prayed $500 damages.

All the good qualities of Ely's Cream Balm, solid, are found in Liquid Cream Balm which is intended for use in atomizers. That it is an unfailing cure for Nasal Catarrh is proved by an ever increasing mass of testimony. It does not dry out nor rasp the tender air-passages. It allays the inflammation and goes straight to the root of the disease. Obsolete old cases have been cured in a few weeks. All druggists, 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros. 56 Warren Street, New York.

Colored Man Insane.

Minor Duerson, aged about 60 and a hard-working and respected colored man of the Tabernacle neighborhood, was adjudged insane and taken to the asylum at Hopkinsville Friday. His mind appears to have become unbalanced on religious matters. One night last week he wandered about in his shirt sleeves and bare feet, contracting a severe cold, and was not apprehended until the following morning. — Todd County Times.

Saved Her Son's Life.

The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo., is Mrs. S. Ruppel. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him; when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks when he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure by Cook & Higgins and Cook's Pharmacy Druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Worked Like a Charm.

Mr. D. N. Walker, editor of that spicy journal, the Enterprise, Louisa, Va., says: "I ran a nail in my foot last week and at once applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. No inflammation followed; the salve simply healed the wound." Heals every sore, burn and skin disease. Guaranteed at Cook & Higgins and Cook's Pharmacy Druggists, Price 25c.

DIED IN THE BARN

WHERE HER HUSBAND HAD HANGED HIMSELF.

Fate of Mrs. Luvina Wilkins, an Aged Woman of the Allegree Neighborhood.

While stripping tobacco in a barn at her home near Allegree, Mrs. Luvina Wilkins, aged about 65, dropped dead suddenly Thursday of last week. A singular coincidence is the fact that in the same barn, about eight years ago, her husband, Jas. Wilkins, while insane, committed suicide by hanging.

Mrs. Wilkins is survived by two children: Jas. Walker Wilkins and Miss Mary Wilkins, both of the Allegree neighborhood.

Do Not Crowd the Season.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their flannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much more danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it is used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale by Anderson Fowler Drug Co. (Inc.), the leading Drug Store, 9th and Main, St. Hopkinsville, Ky.

Kodol digests what you eat and quickly overcomes indigestion, which is a forerunner of dyspepsia. It is made in strict conformity to the National Pure Food and Drugs Law and is sold on a guarantee relief plan. Sold by R. C. Hardwick.

BY ELECTRIC LINE

MADISONVILLE AND NORTON TO BE JOINED.

Hopkins County Capitalists Claim Road Will Be Constructed in a Short Time.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., March 18. — Local capitalists are again talking of an electric line from Madisonville to Nortonville, and, according to information given out by one of the parties most interested, these two towns will in the near future be connected by an electric line. It is said the line will be built from northern part of the city, beginning near the M., H. and E. depot. For the past year the L. and N. railroad has been running an interurban train between Madisonville and Nortonville, and it has proved a paying investment. The distance between the two towns is twelve miles, and there are several small towns along the line. The main line of the Illinois Central crosses the L. and N. at Nortonville, and there is much traveling between the two places.

CHAPTER VII.

The consummate daring of it! Why the rascal ought to have been in command of an army. On the Board of Strategy he would have been incomparable!

There followed a tableau that I shall not soon forget. We all stared at the real Haggerty much after the fashion of Medusa's victims. Presently the tension relaxed, and we all sighed. I sighed because the thought of all for the night in a dress-suit divided in perspective; the girl sighed for the same reason and one or two other things; the chief of the village police and his officers sighed because darkness had suddenly swooped down on them; and Hamilton sighed because there were no gems. Haggerty was the one among us who didn't sigh. He scowled blackly.

This big athlete looked like a detective, and the abrupt authority of his tones convinced me that he was. Haggerty was celebrated in the annals of police affairs; he had handled all sorts of criminals, from titled impostors down to petty thieves. He was not a man to trifle with, mentally or physically, and for this reason we were all shaking in our boots. He owned to a keen but brutal wit; to him there was no such thing as sex among criminals, and he had the tenacity of purpose that has given the bulldog considerable note in the pit. But it was quite plain that for once he had met his match.

"I don't see how you can blame me," mumbled the chief. "None of us was familiar with your looks, and he showed us his star of authority, and went to work in a business-like way—By George! and he has run away with my horse and carriage!"—starting from his chair.

"Never mind the horse. You'll find it safe at the railway station," snarled Haggerty. "Now, then, tell me everything that has happened, from beginning to end."

And the chief recounted the adventure briefly. Haggerty looked coldly at me and shrugged his broad shoulders. As for the girl, he never gave her so much as a single glance. He knew a gentleman without looking at her twice.

"Humph! Isn't he a clever one, though?" cried Haggerty, in a burst of admiration. "Clever is no name for it. I'd give a year of my life to come face to face with him. It would be an interesting encounter. Hunted him for weeks, and today laid eyes on him for the first time. Had my clumsy paws on him this very afternoon. He seemed so willing to be locked up that I grew careless. But any one and his accomplice, an erstwhile valet, had me trussed like a chicken and bundled into the clothes-press. Took my star, credentials, playing-card, and invitation. It was near eleven o'clock when I roused the housekeeper. I telegraphed two hours ago."

"Telegraphed?" exclaimed the chief, rousing himself out of a melancholy dream. "There would be no mention of him in the morning's papers."

"Yes, telegraphed. The despatch lay unopened on your office-desk. You're a good watchdog—for a hen-coop!" growled Haggerty. "Ten thousand in gems to-night, and by this time he is safe in New York. You are all a pack of blockheads."

"Used the telephone, did he? Told you to hold these innocent persons till he went somewhere to land the accomplice, eh? The whistle of the train meant nothing to you. Well, that whistle ought to have told you that there might be a mistake. A good officer never quits his prisoners. If there is an accomplice in toils elsewhere, he makes them bring him in."

He stepped over to the telephone and called up central. He spoke so low that none of us overheard what he said; but he hung up the receiver, a satisfied smile on his face.

"What are you going to do?" asked the chief. "Never you mind. I have an idea. It may be a good one. If it is, I'll telephone you all about it when the time comes."

"Dicky." Never! I should always be thinking of paper collars."

"I wish I were witty like that!" She snuggled down beneath the robes.

An artist's model, thought I. Never in this world. I now understood the drift of her uncle's remark about her earthing capacity. The Alice Hawthorne miniatures brought fabulous prices. And here I was, sitting so close to her that our shoulders touched, and she a girl who knew intimately emperors and princes and dukes, not to mention the world-ly-rich. I admit that for a moment I was touched with awe. And it was beginning to get serious. This girl interested me marvelously. I summoned up all my courage.

"Are—are you married?" "No."

"Nor engaged to be married?" "No."

"But you mustn't ask all these questions."

"How would you like to ride around in a first-class motor-car the rest of your days?"

She laughed merrily. Possibly it was funny.

"Are you always amusing like this?" "Supposing I were serious?"

"In that case I should say you had not yet slipped off your fool's motley."

"This directness was discouraging."

"I wonder if the ten of hearts is lucky, after all," I mused.

"We are not in jail. I consider that the best of good fortune."

"Give me your card," said I.

She gave me the card, and I put it with mine.

"Why do you do that?" "Perhaps I want to bring about an enchantment,"—sincerely.

"As Signor Fantocini, or as Mr. Comstalk?"

"I have long since resigned my position in the museum; it was too exciting."

She made no rejoinder; and for some time there was no sound but the music of the bells.

Finally we drew up under the colonial portico of the Hollywood Inn and were welcomed by the genial Moriarty himself, his Celtic countenance a mirror of smiles.

"Anything in the house to eat?" I cried, shaking the robes from me.

"Anything you like, if you like cold things. I can hate you a pot of coffee on the gasolene-burner, and there's a manny a vintage in the cellars."

"That will be plenty!"—joyfully, helping Miss Hawthorne to alight.

"Sure, and ye are from the Hunt Club?"—noting our costumes. "Well, well! they never have any too much grub. Now, I'll put ye in a little room all ye yourselves, with a windy and a log fire: cozy as ye please. Ye'll have nearly two hours to wait for the cars from the village."

We entered the general assembly-room. It was roomy and quaint, and somewhere above us was the inevitable room in which George Washington had slept. The great hooded fireplace was merry with crackling logs. Casually I observed that we were not alone. Over yonder, in a shadowed corner, sat two men, very well bundled up, and, to all appearances, fast asleep. Moriarty lighted a four-branched candelabrum and showed us the way to the little private dining-room, took our orders, and left us.

"This is romance," said I. "They used to do these things hundreds of years ago, and everybody had a good time."

"It is now all very wicked and improper," murmured the girl, laying aside her domino for the first time; "but delightful! I now find I haven't the least bit of remorse for what I have done."

In that dark evening gown she was very beautiful. Her arms and shoulders were tinted like Carrara marble; and I knew instantly that I was never going to recover. I drew two chairs close to the grate. I sat down in one and she in the other. With a contented sigh she rested her blue-slipped feet on the brass fender.

"My one regret is that I haven't any shoes. What an adventure!" "It's fine!" Two I-urs in the society of this enchanting creature! It was almost too good to be true. Ah, if it might always be like this! To return home from the day's work, to be greeted warmly by a woman as beautiful as this one! I sighed loudly.

phen-bonds accidentally dropped that invitation in my studio, a few days before she sailed for Europe. I simply could not resist the temptation. That is all the mystery there is."

"And they still think you were there rightfully?"

"You are no longer mystified?" "Yes; there is yet another mystery to solve: myself." I knew it. Without rhyme and reason, I was in love; and without rhyme or reason, I was glad of it.

"Shall you ever be able to solve such a mystery?"—"quizzically."

"It all depends upon you."

"Mr. Comstalk, you will not mar the exquisite humor of our adventure by causing me annoyance. I am sure that some day we shall be very good friends. But one does not talk of love on eight hours' acquaintance. Besides, you would be taking advantage of my helplessness; for I really depend upon you to see me safe back to New York."

It is only the romance; the adventure; and such moonlight nights often succumb to sentimentality. What do you know of me? Nothing. What do I know of you? Nothing, save that there is a kindred spirit which is always likely to lead us into trouble. Down in your heart you know you are only temporarily affected by moonshine. Come, make me a toast!"—lifting her cup.

"You are right," said I. "I am a gentleman. But it was only consistent that, having been the fool, I should now play the ass. Here's!"—and I held up my cup.

But neither of us drank; there wasn't time.

For the door opened quietly, and in walked the two men we had seen upon entering the inn. One of them gently closed the door and locked it. One was in soiled every-day clothes, the other in immaculate evening dress. The latter doffed his opera hat with the most engaging smile imaginable. The girl and I looked up at him in blank bewilderment, and set our cups down so mechanically that the warm amber liquid splattered on the tablecloth.

Galloping Dick and the affable inspector of the cellars stood before us!

he does not go out for him. And now I've got to start all over again, and he in New York, a bigger cat-catch than Rome ever boasted of. He's not a common thief; nobody knows who he is or what his haunts are. But I have seen his face; I'll never forget him."

The chief tore his hair, while his subordinates shuffled their feet uneasily. Then they all started in to explain their theories. But the defective silenced them with a wave of his huge hand.

"I don't want to hear any explanations. Let these persons go," he commanded, with a jerk of his head in our direction. "You can all return to town but one officer. I may need a single man," Haggerty added thoughtfully.

"What are you going to do?" asked the chief.

"Never you mind. I have an idea. It may be a good one. If it is, I'll telephone you all about it when the time comes."

Get Ready For Easter NOW!

THE SPLENDID SUCCESS of our Millinery Opening yesterday is a source of great gratification to us. And encouraged by the flood of compliments given this department of our great store yesterday, we are determined to make our Millinery department the pleasure resort of the shop-center of Hopkinsville. It could not be otherwise with this tremendous stock of millinery bought direct from the importers and the American factories---thus saving all middle men's profits; with a trimmer whose natural genius is a marvel and whose experience and opportunities have been the best America could offer---and with a sales-force enthusiastically in love with millinery and splendidly equipped by a long and conscientious study of the wants of the Hopkinsville trade. The orders already placed indicate a tremendous rush just before Easter, and we make a special request that you place your order as early as possible to insure prompt delivery. If you have in mind any special design or color, we are prepared to fill your order, it matters not how "freakish" or uncommon it may appear.

A Novel Introduction.

The Dr. Howard Company have entered into an arrangement with L. L. Elgin druggist, by which a special introductory offer will be made of 25 cents on the 50 cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a new discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief; it makes permanent cures.

So remarkably successful has Dr. Howard's specific been in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all forms of liver trouble, that L. L. Elgin will return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness, gas on the stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation and all forms of malaria and liver trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

The Christian county medical society held its regular monthly meeting in the city courtroom Monday morning. A large number of the doctors of the county were present and the meeting was a most interesting one.

Successful Farmers, This Will Interest You

The above cut represents Clark's Double Action Cutaway Harrow. This is truly a remarkable tool.

The following statements in regard to it have been thoroughly demonstrated.

It will cut from twenty-eight to thirty acres, or will double cut fifteen acres in a day. It is drawn by two medium horses. It will move 15,000 tons of earth one foot in a day. It can be set so as to move the earth but little, or so great an angle as to move all the earth one foot. It keeps the surface true and the machine runs true in line of draft. This cannot be said of any other disk harrow.

THE CLARK CUTAWAY HARROWS will cut and reduce the toughest sod to plant food quickly without the aid of a plow.

CLARK'S CUTAWAY HARROWS are INTENSE AND PERFECT cultivators of soil, and are money makers. Every crop is increased 25 to 50 per cent by their use. 300,000 farmers are now using them. THE JOURNAL BOXES are made of hard wood, soaked in oil, and will outwear any metal. THE DISKS are cutlery steel and never break.

Story Of Evelyn's Life Abroad With Thaw As Told In The Hummel Affidavit.

NEW YORK, March 19.—All the evidence in the Thaw trial is expected to be in by tonight. Experts for the defense are again on the stand today.

The case of the prosecution closed yesterday with the introduction of the affidavit which Abe Hummel testified Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, before her marriage, swore to.

In the affidavit Miss Nesbit says that she was 18 years of age, having been born on Christmas day, 1884. During June 1903, she said she went to Europe with her mother at the request of Thaw. They remained in Paris for a time and then went to Boulogne. Miss Nesbit and her mother remained there while Thaw went to London. He returned for them and they went to London. Then Thaw and Miss Nesbit made a trip to Holland, Germany and the Austrian Tyrol. They traveled as man and wife, under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Deffis. The affidavit tells of Thaw having leased a castle in the Austrian mountains, where Miss Nesbit and Thaw continued to live as man and wife.

While at the castle it is alleged that Thaw tore a bath robe from the girl, leaving her absolutely naked, attacked her with a cowhide whip.

"I saw he was terrorized," said Miss Nesbit in the affidavit, "and his eyes were glaring. He threw me on a bed and when I started to scream he put his fingers down my throat and tried to choke me. Then he took his skin he struck me several severe and violent blows with the cowhide whip. So brutally was I beaten that my skin was left bruised and cut.

"After the first beating he attacked me again and for a period of twenty minutes beat me. He acted like a demented man. I screamed, but we were far at one end of the castle and my cries could not be heard by the servants. When Thaw finally left me I was unable to move.

"The next day he repeated the attack upon me and unmercifully beat me. For three months I was nervous. During this time I was in fear he would take my life.

"From Austria we went to Switzerland, where one day when I was in my night gown Thaw attacked me and beat me on my bare legs below the knee. He continued on the slightest pretext to beat me. "Afterward we went to Paris, where Thaw for an entire day at intervals of half an hour beat me continually with a rattan whip. He beat me each time and I was left swooning and fainting and could not realize all that happened.

"While we were in Paris one day I found a small solder box containing needles. I asked him about them, and he said he had been ill and compelled to use cocaine. It was then for the first time that I knew he was addicted to the use of cocaine. I afterwards saw him take the drug internally by small pills. He attempted to make me take one of the pills."

While in Paris, the affidavit goes on, Miss Nesbit was extremely nervous and was confined to her bed for two weeks. Thaw made her write a letter to Miss Simonton asking her to go to London.

"When she arrived, Thaw told her lies about me," continues the affidavit, "and threatened to kill me if I did not subscribe to them."

In the affidavit Miss Nesbit also accused Thaw of taking from her several rings and other pieces of jewelry, $400 in money in the shape of Cook's checks, and a trunk full of clothes and hats. "When I came to America," the affidavit continues, "I had a letter to Mr. Longfellow from Mr. Thaw, in which he asked Mr. Longfellow to have me followed by detectives, but to see that I had everything I wanted."

The concluding paragraph of the affidavit reads: "I have often been told by Mr. Thaw that he is inimical to a certain married man whom he has often said he would make trouble for and put into the penitentiary. He several times tried to get me to sign papers accusing this married man of drugging and ruining me when I was 15 years of age but I refused to do so, because it was not true, and for that reason he inflicted on me the punishment herein described."

ONE CENT DAMAGES

RETURNED BY THE JURY IN A SLANDER SUIT

Sam D. Radford Claimed That Chas. Johnson Branded Him as "A Common Liar."

For the first time in years a verdict for one cent damages has been returned by a Christian county jury, this being the finding of the jury Tuesday in the slander suit brought by Sam D. Radford against Chas. W. Johnson. Radford prayed for $3,000 damages on the grounds that Johnson had slandered him by stating publicly that testimony which he, Radford, had given before the grand jury "was a lie and that Radford was a common liar."

The jury in the case of Wallace Boyd against Hester & Thompson for $1,250 returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $500.

The suit of the Cumberland Telephone company against the city of Hopkinsville to recover about $900 in taxes alleged to have been paid on an erroneous assessment, has been dismissed upon motion of the plaintiff.

Recently Sheriff David Smith had an inquiry for some missing heirs for a cash bequest. The notice was published in the Kentucky New Era and within a few days the missing parties applied at the sheriff's office for further information, they having seen the notice in the paper. Monday Sheriff Smith received another letter from a firm of lawyers in Sparta, Tenn., asking for any information he could give regarding any heirs Jesse Jopling or Joplin, who came to Tennessee in the year 1835 and in 1836 acquired 5,000 acres of land which is now quite valuable. It was thought that some of the relatives of Jopling may be living in Christian county.

The many Hopkinsville friends of Henry M. Scales, formerly of Clarksville, will be delighted to learn that he has been nominated for mayor of Oklahoma City by the Democrats. The Daily Oklahoman says of the nominee:

"Hon. Henry M. Scales, the Democratic nominee for mayor, is a man of absolute integrity and brilliant intellect, a capable lawyer and business man, one whose every acquaintance becomes a warm friend and one who will represent Oklahoma City with credit on any and all occasions."

Drs. Barker and Rollo operated on Col. Tom Barker Sunday afternoon for the purpose of riding his lungs of a congestion incident to the attack of the pneumonia from which he has been dangerously ill for several days. The operation was successfully performed. Tubes were inserted through which the future election will pass, and so relieve the tening conditions.

An attempt has been made during the past week to revive the agitation over the question of peonage in the south. A year ago, as the result of alleged exposures by laborers who claimed to have been unfairly treated in the construction camps, where work on the new Key West railway is being done, an investigation was made by a representative of the department of commerce and labor. At the same time a number of newspapers, seeing possibilities of sensational results, carried on investigations of their own. The investigators covered the entire east coast of Florida from Jacksonville to Key West, visiting all the railway camps. It was found that the reported abuses did not exist in any of these places and the matter was dropped. It is doubtful if it will receive much attention at the present time.

There are a number of nice junkies under way. Three members of the senate and three of the house will go abroad shortly, at government expense, to study the immigration question. "Uncle Joe" Cannon and a number of national legislators have gone to make a study of the Panama Canal and incidentally will cruise around the West Indies; another party of congressmen followed fast on the heels of "Uncle Joe's" personally conducted tour, with the same objective point in view, and Secretary Taft is planning a trip to Cuba, Panama, and Porto Rico, in which he will take along his guests two United States Senators, and Representative Burton of Ohio. For the remaining senator and congressmen the summer season is holding forth promises of great peace. The elections are over and the lucky ones who will return to their seats in the Sixtieth congress are not bothering much about their political fences.

The Denver Times has announced the result of its prize opinion contest as to the guilt or innocence of Harry Thaw. Of a total of 16,769 opinions, 4,296 were for conviction and 12,473 for acquittal. The winning opinions were: First prize, Augustus A. Foster, Montrose, Col., Gully. "The wretch who shares responsibility for a woman's dishonor, and to save his worthless neck, proclaims that dishonor to the world, deserves a double death." Second prize, Mrs. Cunningham, Denver; "Not guilty. Harry Thaw knowing what she did, forgave Evelyn, Christ forgave the Magdalen. He did not forgive the man. White got what he deserved." Third prize, C. Jurgens, Denver; "Guilty." Acquittal means legal indorsement of a heinous crime, to which thousands might resort to correct a very prevalent disregard of the conjugal relations." In making the awards, logic in expression of opinion, grammatical construction and evidence of consideration of evidence and facts of the case were taken into account.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of medicines of known composition. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to those desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XII, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 24.

Text of the Lesson, Isa. xxviii, 7-13. Memory Verse, 7—Golden Text, Hos. iv, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Copyright, 1907, by American Press Association. To find merely a so-called temperance lesson in such a chapter as this is something like eating the smallest portion of food from a beautifully supplied table. I was asked recently to write an article for one of our reviews on "Systematic Giving," but the substance of what I did write was to the effect that the need of the churches is not more system in giving, but a better knowledge of God and of the constraining love of Christ.

In reference to intemperance and all its evils, the whole matter is summed up in Eph. v, 18, "Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the spirit." The writer goes on to tell of Christ loving the church and giving Himself for it that He might sanctify and cleanse it. Until we know and believe the love that God has to us (1 John iv, 16) and have learned to say "Thy love is better than wine" (Song 1, 2) there is not much use in merely trying to lay restrictions on a corrupt and sinful nature which cannot be improved (Rom. viii, 7).

Our lesson chapter, from which we are asked to study a few verses which set forth the abominations of the natural man even in priests and prophets, whose one occupation should be to plead with God on behalf of men and plead with men on behalf of God, gives us the heart of the remedy for all evil in verse 16, one of the grandest words in the book: "Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold I lay in Zion for a foundation stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. He that believeth shall not make haste." Then see in verse 28 a suggestion of how He becomes to us the only foundation, not by trying to imitate His life, but by seeing Him "bruised for our iniquities" (Isa. liii, 5, 6). He is the corn of wheat who said that He must die for our sakes (John xii, 24, 25), and we must first receive and then follow Him. Put with this foundation verses Acts ii, 11, 12; 1 Pet. ii, 4-8; John 1, 12.

There is a drunkenness and a smuggering that is not the result of wine or strong drink, but that is the result of turning away from the word of God (chapter xxix, 9-13), and this was Israel's guilt and is the guilt of the church today. Israel mocked the messengers of God and despised His words and misused His prophets until the wrath of the Lord arose against His people, till there was no remedy (II Chron. xxxi, 16).

Literary drunkenness, with all its disgusting fitness as set forth in verses 7 and 8 of our lesson, is but one phase of the manifestation of the flesh, the sinful nature in all mankind (Gal. v, 19-21), and those who continue to possess only that sinful nature can never inherit the kingdom of God; but as some such at Corinth became washed and sanctified and justified (I Cor. vi, 9-11), so have many others in all ages, for the only one who can deliver says, "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out" (John vi, 37). Weymouth's rendering is, "Him who comes to me I will never on any account drive away." He is sorry for and longs to give deliverance to every weary sin sick soul, but the trouble is that they will not hear and will not come. See verse 12 and compare chapter xxx, 15, and Matt. xi, 28; xxiii, 37. Verses 9, 10, indicate the rebellion of the natural heart against the simplicity of God's way of deliverance. These proud, self-indulgent rebels seem to say, Does He think that we are babes just weaned, that He must prattle to us with His line upon line, precept upon precept? So the mere natural man turns from the things of God and counts them foolishness, not knowing that the kingdom of God must be received as a little child would receive it (Matt. xviii, 3; Luke xiv, 17; I Cor. ii, 14). A vision of Christ in His love to us, bearing our sins in His own body, dying in our stead, the just for the unjust, is the only thing that will break the hard heart, and if that does not nothing will. Each believer is a priest dealing with God on behalf of his fellows and also a prophet bearing God's message to his fellows. It is ours to tell the message lovingly and faithfully, and He who sends us will take care of the results.

If we would be full of courage and joy, as the Lord's messengers, should always be, we must understand His plan and be agreed with Him about everything, for otherwise we cannot walk with Him (Amos iii, 7). This is suggested by the fact that we are today having a lesson from Isaiah, whose message was primarily to or concerning Judah and Jerusalem (i, 1; ii, 1), and, as Dr. Robert Anderson says: "It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of an earnest, prayerful study of Israel's history, past, present and future, as recorded in the Word of God with extreme liberality of detail. Israel is the key whereby to unlock the storehouse of prophetic truth. Israel is the door of entrance to many of God's revealed purposes concerning the human race in ages yet to come."

Every believer who is right with God cannot but desire the time when the earth shall be filled with His glory (Num. xiv, 21; Isa. xi, 9; Hab. ii, 14) and all drunkenness and every other form of sin forever gone. Isa. xxvii, 6, tells us that Israel shall do this, not the church, not present preaching nor missionary work, but Israel when she shall have learned to sing Isa. xxvi, 1-9. Not seeing this causes a form of drunkenness and staggering.

GRIEF AT PEMBROKE

OVER DEATH OF A POPULAR YOUNG CITIZEN.

Emmett Carneal a Victim of Consumption.—Had Just Reached His Majority When Summoned.

PEMBROKE, Ky., March 16.—Emmett Carneal, one of the most popular young men of this city, died yesterday morning at his home here of consumption from which he had been a long time sufferer. He had just attained his majority in years when his life was cut short. He was the son of Mrs. Alice Carneal, who, with another son, Ewell, survives him. The young man was a devoted member of the Methodist church and his death is generally mourned here.

Funeral services will be held here Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, immediately after which the body will be taken to Hopkinsville where it will be interred in Riverside cemetery.

Mrs. Keeling Dead.

Infirmities due to old age, accompanied by an attack of la grippe, caused the death of Mrs. Nannie B. Keeling at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Myra Wolfe, four miles north of town, Saturday. The funeral services, conducted by the Rev. J. B. Galloway, were held at the residence Sunday. The burial was at Providence.

Mrs. Keeling was 83 years old and is survived by three children, Mrs. Myra Wolfe and Mrs. J. H. Hutchinson, of this county, and Woodson Keeling, of Hopkinsville. Her husband had been dead for many years.—Todd County Times.

The winds of March have no terror to the user of De Witt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve. It quickly heals chapped and cracked skin. Good, too, for boils and burns, and undoubtedly the best relief for Piles. Sold here by R. C. Hardwick.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How to Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or something indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Little globules of sunshine that drive the clouds away. De Witt's Little Early Risers will scatter the gloom of sick-headache and biliousness. They do not gripe or sicken. Recommended and sold here by R. C. Hardwick.

Fines Assessed.

James Cannon, charged with resisting an officer, and Coleman Lacey, charged with interfering with an officer, plead guilty to these charges in the city court this morning and each was fined $6. The charge lodged by Cannon against Officer Charles Hord in the county court, charging the policeman with assault and battery in striking him in the head with his billy, was withdrawn.

Old Age.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. The very shadow of eclipse which threatens it, makes it the more prized. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom and counsel. That is old age as it should be. But old age as it often is means nothing but a second childhood of mind and body. What makes the difference? Very largely the care of the stomach. In youth and the full strength of manhood it doesn't seem to matter how we treat the stomach. We abuse it, overwork it, injure it. We don't suffer from it much. But when age comes the stomach is worn out. It can't prepare and distribute the needed nourishment to the body, and the body, unenriched, falls into senile decay. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a wonderful medicine for old people whose stomachs are "weak" and whose digestions are "poor." Its invigorating effects are felt by mind as well as body. It takes the sting from old age, and makes old people strong.

Under the present Republican protectionism the cost of living comes mighty high, but then the tariff is so fixed that it costs considerable to die, for the tariff protected coffin trust gets in its work after you are dead.

JNO. G. MORTON DEAD

WELL KNOWN OCTOGENARIAN BANKER OF MADISONVILLE.

Had Been Ill Two Weeks of Grip.—Father-in-law Of Joel McPherson.

(From Friday's Daily)

Mr. John G. Morton, one of Madisonville's most successful and prominent business men, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. D. McPherson, this afternoon at 2 o'clock, says the Madisonville Hustler.

Mr. Morton was taken sick about two weeks ago with la grippe and it was at first thought no serious results would follow, but he gradually grew worse, and it became evident that he could not get well.

Mr. Morton was eighty-five years of age, and was one of the leading business men of this section. In 1867 he engaged in the banking business, establishing the Morton bank. Mr. Morton was a member of the Christian church and had been identified with church work for many years. During his long career in business he had accumulated much wealth and at the time of his death he was considered one of the wealthiest men in the county.

In the death of Mr. Morton the city of Madisonville and the county of Hopkins loses one of its best citizens. He had ever the interests of his town and county at heart, and was ever ready and willing to do anything in his power toward the development and progress of home interests.

Mr. Morton leaves three children, Mr. W. C. Morton, president of Morton's bank; Mrs. J. D. McPherson, and Mrs. John G. B. Hall.

In 1897 I had a stomach disease. Some physicians said Dyspepsia, some Consumption. One said I would not live until Spring. For four years I existed on boiled milk, soda biscuits, and doctors' prescriptions. I could not digest anything I ate; then I picked up one of my Alma mages and it happened to be my life-saver. I bought a fifty-cent bottle of KODOL and the benefit I received from that bottle all the gold in Georgia could not buy. In two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. May you live long and prosper.—C. N. Cornell, Roding, Ga., 1906. The above is only a sample of the great good that is daily done everywhere by Kodol For Dyspepsia. It is sold here by R. C. Hardwick.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved. B. F. Crocker, Esq., now 84 years of age, and for twenty years Justice of Peace at Martinsburg, Iowa, says: "I am terribly afflicted with sciatic rheumatism in my left arm and right hip. I have used three bottles of Chamberlin's Pain Balm and it did me lots of good." For sale by Anderson-Fowler Drug Co. (Incorporated) the leading Drug Store 9th and Main St. Hopkinsville Ky.

Chamberlin's Cough Remedy is Both Agreeable and Effective.

Chamberlin's Cough Remedy has no superior for coughs, colds and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant to take and contains nothing in any way injurious has made it a favorite with mothers. Mr. W. S. Pelham, a merchant of Kirksville, Iowa, says: "For more than twenty years Chamberlin's Cough Remedy has been my leading remedy for all throat troubles. It is especially successful in cases of croup. Children like it and my customers who have used it will not take any other." For sale by Anderson-Fowler Drug Co. (Incorporated) the leading Drug Store, 9th and Main St., Hopkinsville Ky.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

Not only is a medicine valuable for its ability to cure disease, but the way in which it affects the system is a very important factor. When the system is infected with the germs of disease as in Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., every particle of its recuperative strength is needed to assist in eliminating the poisons and impurities which are causing the trouble. It should not be dosed and treated with strong mineral mixtures and concoctions that further add to the burden, by disagreeably affecting the bowels, producing indigestion, or eating out the delicate linings and membranes of the stomach. The absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. has always been one of the strongest points in its favor, and is one of the principal reasons for its being now the most widely known and universally used blood medicine on the market. It is made entirely of healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks of the forests and fields. These are selected for their well known curative properties, and are known at the same time to possess the qualities to build up and strengthen every part of the system by their fine tonic effect. Not only is S. S. S. the king of blood purifiers, but it is the one medicine that may be taken with absolute safety by young or old. We guarantee it non-injurious and offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral in any form. S. S. S. is a safe and reliable treatment for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and any and all diseases arising from a poisoned or impure state of the blood. It goes to the very bottom of these troubles, removes every trace of disease, enriches and builds up the blood and permanently cures where mineral medicines fail. If you are suffering with any form of blood disease write for our book on The Blood and ask for any medical advice you may desire; no charge for either. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SOLONS IN SESSION

TELEPHONE MATTER PASSED TO SPECIAL MEETING.

Investigation Of Saloon Case Also Deferred.—License Revoked.—The Street Sweeping Outfit.

(From Saturday's Daily)
 The city council met in mid-monthly meeting last night. The case of the Cumberland Telephone company, which had been notified to appear and show cause why they should not purchase a new franchise under which to do business in Hopkinsville, was passed until a special meeting which is to be held next Friday night.

The same action was taken in the case of Cannon, Henderson & Jones, the Sixth street saloon firm, who had been notified to appear and show cause why their license should not be revoked.

The license of George Diuguid and wife, colored, who have been conducting a restaurant upstairs at Sixth and Virginia street, was revoked on the grounds that their place was a nuisance. In circuit court a few days ago Diuguid and his wife were tried upon this charge fined $20 and $10 respectively.

The committee which was appointed to purchase a street sweeper, team of mules, wagon and harness reported their work as completed. The report was approved and the committee discharged. The street sweeper has been at the depot now for several days and it will be set up and put into operation as soon as a mechanic can arrive from the factory and set it up. The sweeper cost $300, the team of mules $475 and the wagon $90.

The ordinance calling for curbing and cinder walk to be put in on the south side of East Ninth street from J. T. Hanbery's residence to Tucker's grocery, a distance of nearly an eighth of a mile, passed the second reading and is now a law.

Fireplugs were ordered to be put in at Seventeenth and Canton streets and on West Nineteenth street and an arc light and plug at Fourth and Campbell streets.

EXCEPTIONAL REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT UNHEARD OF OPPORTUNITY.

Offered by the Sacramento Valley Improvement company organized under the law of the state of Missouri, with the capital stock $150,000 fully paid. The California Safe Deposit and Trust Co. capital $4,000,000 are trustees.

A few strong points.

1. The investor receives in return for his money a deed of conveyance to a specific piece of highly improved, productive and valuable real estate, described with the same clearness and accuracy as in a deed for a city lot. All the expense, care and responsibility of developing the property is assumed by the company. There is no interest to pay, no taxes and no further expense until the completion of the contract period.

2. Professional and salaried men, merchants and farmers who are able to spare a few dollars monthly can easily acquire one or more of the lots in a few years without feeling the expenditure and without interfering with their regular occupations.

3. Women can safely and profitably invest in this proposition. The same is true of invalids and minors because the Company obligates itself to manage and care for the vineyards for the small charge of 10% of the annual gross receipts, if the owners so desire after fully paying for their property.

4. Purchasers of the vineyards have three options after they have acquired them.

(a) They can build on a part of their property and thereafter enjoy the rare combination of a home and income side by side.

(b) They can have homes in any nearby California town thus possessing the benefits of town life and at the same time be close enough to their vineyards to give them personal attention and care.

(c) If they prefer to remain in their present locations and positions and simply receive the annual income from their vineyards, they can do so without danger or trouble as the company is bound to act as agent and manager for non-resident owners when requested and to remit them annually the net proceeds from their property, less a small fee of 10%, for superintendence.

5. The company intends to deal fairly with its customers. The most liberal terms are extended and set forth in the bond for a deed to those who met with misfortune, sickness or accident, and to the heirs of those who die before completing payment. An absolute loss of the money invested is thus prevented.

At this investment has for the last forty years paid an annual dividend of from 30% to 60%, never less than 30%, it is worth investigating.

Messrs. W. F. Garnett & Co. of this city have control of the business. See them, and do it quickly as the good chances of getting in on this good thing are rapidly going.

EVERYBODY ASKED

TO AID MOVEMENT MEANING MUCH TO KENTUCKY.

State Must be Adequately Represented With Building and Exhibits at Jamestown Exposition.

What Kentucky will have at the Jamestown Exposition, which opens on April 25 next, remains to be decided in the next few days. The state wants a building which will be the pride of every Kentuckian and the admiration of every visitor to the world's fair. It wants an exhibit which will disclose to the world the great and varied resources of this attractive commonwealth.

Kentucky's attractions are worthy of exploitation. They are surpassed by those of no other state in the union. The Jamestown Exposition offers a wonderful opportunity. In many respects it will surpass in interest any previous international celebration. It will be the mecca of hundreds of thousands of visitors from the East and the South.

It was in this manner that the fifth state development convention, held last October in Winchester, looked upon the subject. This convention recognized the opportunity offered to aid in state development. It elected the Kentucky Jamestown Exposition commission, which organized last November with Col. J. Stoddard Johnston as president.

The commission was without funds for the carrying out of the purposes for which it was created. There was no legislative appropriation. The commission appealed to the patriotism and business enterprise of the citizens of Kentucky.

That appeal has been answered only in part. It is authoritatively announced from the headquarters of the commission that further funds must be forthcoming before its task can be properly fulfilled.

The commission again appeals for substantial assistance. Contract has been let for a state building—a replica of the Fort of Boonesboro. It will be the most attractive structure on the exposition grounds. But funds will be needed for the maintenance of this building and for the display of products of Kentucky farms, forests and mines. The state cannot afford to make half a showing.

Every man and woman in Kentucky is asked to help maintain the good name of the state at a world's fair held in the Old Dominion, Kentucky's mother state. Members of the Kentucky commission are devoting their time and services gratuitously to the task. They ask the aid of their fellow citizens. No contribution will be too small to be of service. The integrity of the men composing the state commission warrants careful and judicious expenditure of the fund. All subscriptions should be made payable to Logan C. Murray, treasurer, and should be sent to C. C. Onstey, secretary, 204 Commercial building, Louisville.

THE PLAIN TRUTH

What More Can Hopkinsville People Ask.

When well-known residents and highly-respected people of Hopkinsville make such statements as the following, it must carry conviction to every reader:

W. H. West, stock raiser, city constable and collector, living at 849 W. 7th St., says: "I suffered for years with kidney and bladder troubles, and in consequence was subject to a great deal of pain. There was a heavy, dull aching in the small of my back over my right hip and extending down over the bladder. The pain became especially severe if I should stir around or remain long on my feet. The difficulty of the kidney secretions annoyed me at all times. They are scanty, irregular, and the passages were accomplished with a burning sensation. I heard so much said Doan's Kidney Pills that I got a box, and gave them a trial. I found that they benefited me in every way, so much so that I have taken the opportunity on several occasions to recommend them to my friends, and will continue to do so. You may refer to me as having used your remedy with good results, and I hope that it will be the means of relieving others who may be suffering from that common complaint, kidney trouble."

Talmage Sermon

By Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—In this sermon the preacher outlines in imagination the dramatic story of a character of the time of Christ whose experience has a remarkable interest for the people of today. The text is Matthew xxvii, 54. "Truly this was the Son of God."

No picture of the crucifixion is perfect unless the face of Jesus Christ is the center and the absorbing theme. All other parts of the picture must converge toward that divine face or radiate from it even as the spokes of the wheel branch out from the hub. There may be three crosses, but Jesus' cross must be the central cross. There may be soldiers there gambling for a prize, but that prize must be the garments of Jesus Christ. There may be a long line of scoffers and mockers and sneers and blasphemies passing by, but they must all have their eyes riveted upon the dying Jesus. All parts of the crucifixion scene must center in the personality of the chief figure of the divine or universal tragedy, the death of him whose atoning blood was shed that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

But, though we would not for one instant turn our chief thought of the crucifixion from our Divine Lord, yet in order to bring Christ's saving sacrifice a little closer we would this morning have you watch the upturned face of a Roman soldier who is standing at the foot of the cross and with outstretched arms is uttering the words of my text. Who is this centurion? Where did he come from? What was his past life? Why was he led to believe in the divinity of our Master and King? These are questions which I would like to answer in an imaginative way, for in all the Bible we do not read one word about him except that he was a captain or a petty line officer in the Roman army and that he was detailed by his superior officer to see that Christ was executed according to the Roman law. And yet in an imaginative way I believe we can read between the lines and trace this centurion's life step by step from his cradle to his spiritual surrender at the foot of the cross, where today we are all gathered to worship our dying Lord.

In the first place, I imagine that this centurion was once a Roman youth who was born amid the pure, sweet, wholesome country life of old Italy. By that I do not mean he came of an ignorant, poverty stricken family, but I believe he came of an Italian land-owning family which had neither poverty nor riches, but had purity in domestic life, refinement of home associations and had all which was possible in a healthy land to make life pure and sweet and wholesome. In other words, I believe this Roman soldier came from a family like that of hundreds and thousands which lived before the civil war in Georgia and Alabama and Kentucky and Virginia and Tennessee and the Carolinas. These families had their slaves to work their plantations, but they lived for something good, besides money making. They lived for the noble purpose of making true, brave, manly men out of their boys and noble, virtuous wives and mothers out of their daughters. And what is more, they not only strove to make noble, pure men and women out of their children, but as a rule in the Augustan age from which this Roman centurion sprang they accomplished what they stroved for.

Not All Immoral. It is a very grave mistake to suppose that rural Italy in the time of Augustus was like immoral Rome. You can no more judge the country life of Italy by the moral standards of the social life of Caesar's capital than you can judge the moral standards of France by that of Paris or the pure, sweet country life of our own land by the standards of the Tenderloin district of New York or by the social scandals of summer resorts. The more I have read Roman history the more I am impressed with the fact that Rome was not only the immoral cesspool of all Italy, but of all the foreign capitals and the countries of the world. Do you not remember the famous sentence of Juvenal, "In Tiberium defuxit Orontes?" This translated means, "Into the Tiber the Orontes emptied itself." Where was the Orontes river? Did it literally flow into the Tiber? No. The Orontes river was away off in Syria. In order to empty itself into the Tiber it would have to flow through the Mediterranean waters, as the Thames to empty into the Rhine would have to jump the English channel. Now, what did Juvenal mean by that sentence? Why, simply this: The Orontes was the river upon whose banks eastern Antioch was built, as Paris is built upon the banks of the river Seine. Juvenal was poetically saying, "All the filth and the immoral rottenness of Antioch and of all the eastern cities were emptied into Rome as the river Orontes figuratively empties its filth into the river Tiber, upon whose banks the Roman capital was built."

What Juvenal teaches us Farrar and Stanley and all the penmen who have delved into Roman history also teach.

In the rural districts of the Roman empire virtue dwelt. There were purity and truth and honor. There the women lived, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. There thousands and tens of thousands of Cornelias had their most precious jewels in the setting of a cradle. From the pure, sweet, wholesome life of the rural districts of Rome came the men who filled up the legions of Caesar, which defended the Roman power from the Atlantic ocean on the one side to the Tigris on the east, from the Danube on the north to the Sahara desert on the south. The men who conquered the then known world under Julius Caesar and Augustus were not the debauched valetudinarious from the polluted palaces of Rome. These warriors were the physical and mental giants who came from the rural districts of Italy as the strength of the French republic is found in the country life of France and not in the haunts of the dissipated youth of Paris.

The Life of Old Italy. If the moral life of old Italy was not pure and domestically wholesome, how can you account for the noble career of Tiberius Gracchus, the father of the two famous Gracchi—how for that firm, inflexible stoic, the Count Leo Tolstoi of Julius Caesar's time, Marcus Porcius Cato? They say that Cincinnatus, the legendary hero of Rome, was twice offered the dictatorship of Rome when in farmer's dress he was guiding the plow over his farm. It is also said that as soon as Cincinnatus left the dictatorship he again returned, like Washington, to his plow. If the moral life of Italy was not domestically pure and wholesome, how can you account for the purity and the nobility and the virtue of Octavia, the sister of Augustus, whose beauty and virtue for centuries have been sounded by every Roman historian's lip? Again, when Julia, the only daughter of Augustus, became prodigal, how can you account for the fact that her father is angry exiled her to the barren islands of Pandateria and sent one of her guilty paramours to the grave? Would Augustus ever have done that unless virtue and purity were entrenched in thousands of moral homes? Ah, no; Rome's debauchery was not the moral type of rural Italy! It was not the criterion by which the pure friends of Augustus' boyhood home is to be judged. If all men of Italy were debased and all women their companions in sin, Augustus would not have wrung his hands at the perjury of his only child and cried out in agony, "Ah, would that I had never entered wedlock and had died a childless man!" It was in a pure, noble, high thinking, simple living home of rural Italy that I think the centurion of my text was born.

The Scene Changes. Again the scene changes. Now I would have you stand in the very center of all the sin and debauchery and moral filth of the great capital of the Caesars. The year is about 13 A. D. The Augustan reign was drawing to a close. The greatest of Roman rulers next to Julius Caesar himself was about to die. The political world was filled with plots and counterplots and insurrections. "The king is almost dead. Who shall be the next king?" was the question upon every lip. The hand of Augustus, that royal master of men, that hand which was as soft as velvet and yet as strong as steel, was beginning to lose its viscid grip. The splendor of the Roman capital had drawn the wealthy prodigals into its debauching maelstrom and its contentions, and unbridled passions were running riot everywhere.

It was into such a mad scene of was-sail and carousal that I think, this centurion of my text, then a young man of sixteen or eighteen summers, was inducted. In order to understand the moral character and the spiritual life of this young man I would have you for a little while wander through the excavated ruins of old Pompeii. You know that the most famous eruption of Mount Vesuvius took place only some three score years after Augustus died. At that eruption of 79 A. D. God seemed to put out his hand and say: "I will cover up this city in beds of lava. Then nearly 2,000 years later I will lift my hand and show to the world how low and vile and bestial and immorally corrupt a great capital can become when it is drunk with wealth and sin, full of revelries and when man, unbridled in his evil desires, can become viler in his desires than the four footed swine snorting for their food amid the repulsive stench of a city's refuse." And this is just what God did. In an instant the earth was rocking in the agony of an earthquake. In an instant the heavens were covered with leaping flames. In an instant the great rivers of molten lava were rolling down the sides of the volcano. In an instant life ceased to exist in the Newport of old Rome. This the sentinel was found dead at the gate, and the bread was found half cooked in the oven, and the mother was found dead trying to shield her baby underneath her body. But what else do we find in old Pompeii?

The Life of Pompeii. There upon the walls of some of these excavated homes of Pompeii we find pictured the degenerate lives of those ancient inhabitants. One glance at some of those pictures reveals to us what the besotted lives of the men and women who inhabited those homes must have been. Those pictures tell us more than whole libraries of written words could ever reveal. Oh, no; the charge of hypocrisy which Christ hurled against the ancient Pharisees could not be applied to the immoral and drunken degenerates of ancient Rome. Then the followers of Bacchus in their sins, they not only sinned, but they pictured upon the walls of their homes down to the minutest details—the violence and the repulsive corruptions of their sins. There they were welcoming their guests with such words as these: "Come and see me in my lewdness. Come and see me in my domestic crimes. Come and see me as an inhuman monster. Come and see my inner sinful life as it is." And into such evil environments as these I think the centurion of my text was inducted in Rome when he was a very young man.

I think the boy came from a pure, refined home like that in which most of us were cradled. It was also a home which was not blessed with either riches or poverty. The old homestead stood in the midst of a vineyard. The farm also had its great pastures for the cattle and its fields for raising corn and wheat. The father had plenty of money to support the family, but he had very little to spare. But as this boy seemed to be especially bright I think the parents did everything in their power to send him to one of the great universities at Rome for an education. One night after the children were in bed I think I hear the father and the mother talking. "Husband," I hear the wife say, "we ought to make something out of our boy Julius besides a common farmer. Of all our children he seems to love his books the best. Night after night he is pouring over Cicero's 'Philippics' and 'Catalina's Arraignment.' He has read and reread every line which the later poets, like Virgil and Horace, have written. Why can we not send him up to one of the Roman schools and have him educated to be a great orator and a statesman?" "Well, mother," I hear the husband say, "perhaps we can do it. Julius ought to be educated. Perhaps we can economize a little closer at this end so that the boy can spend our money at the other end for an education."

Thus I see the centurion, then a very young man, enter one of the great Roman schools. I see him caught there in the maelstrom of sin. I see him, like the prodigal of Christ's parable, become the victim of all kinds of evil associations. I see him, like thousands and tens of thousands of young students today, who come from pure, true, consecrated Christian homes in this country, enter the large universities of some of our great cities and then plunge headlong into all kinds of sinfulness. Then I see the young man, besotted with drink and evil excesses of all kinds, return to his old home and say: "Here I am, mother. Here I am with health gone and character gone and noble spiritual ideals all gone. Here I am. You sent me from the pure associations of my sisters and my rural home. Here I am, a moral and spiritual degenerate."

Starts Life Anew. Again the scene changes. I believe this young man, disgraced and socially ostracized at home, makes up his mind to start life anew in one of the distant Roman provinces. This has been the natural course for thousands of young men of all centuries who have disgraced themselves at home. Then they try to make a new start in a new world among strangers. You who have been western miners in the old seventies know what I mean. There in those western mining camps it was the well recognized law that no man should pry into the history of his neighbors.

When Sam Houston, the brilliant young governor of Tennessee, married to one of the famous beauties of his state, suddenly felt that he was disgraced, what did he do? Though only thirty-three years of age, he at once resigned the gubernatorial chair and plunged into the wilderness of the far west. There, in the wild, unexplored regions of Texas, he began life anew. When we read again of Sam Houston, it is not as Sam Houston, the governor of Tennessee, but of Sam Houston, the president of the Texas republic. Thus, as we imaginatively study the life of this Roman centurion, I see him to disgrace leaving his father's home. Then I see him next in the far off province of Judea. There, in the Roman camp of Governor Pilate, I hear him say: "The gods helping me, I will yet make something good out of my life. Yes; I have broken mother's heart and made her hair white as the driver's snow and killed her with grief, but I will yet make her, if she is alive in another world, proud of her wayward son." This centurion of my text may have come from one of the purest and the most refined homes of all rural Italy. Then, by the student life of lecherous Rome, we see his moral and spiritual life completely wrecked. In his far off Roman province of Judea he is earnestly and prayerfully trying in the Roman army to make a man out of himself.

Again the scene changes. It is now about the year 30 A. D. This is the time when all the Jewish world is perplexed and in doubt about a Nazarene named Jesus. We are now in the Roman barracks of Jerusalem. This is the officers' quarters. Before us sits the well developed figure of an officer about thirty-eight years of age. This is the former youth of whom we have been speaking, now a broad shouldered Roman centurion. He turns to one of his brother officers and asks: "Tiberius, why are they making such a fuss about this man Jesus? Who is he? Is he a thief or an insurrectionist? Has he murdered anybody? Why does old Calaphas, the high priest, hate him so? Tell me something about him." Then I think see Tiberius turn and sharply look about him. I begin to surmise that this Tiberius is a Christian. Perhaps he was the Roman centurion who was once stationed in Capernaum, about whom Matthew wrote, who had a beloved servant dying from an apparently incurable disease. This servant Christ healed. You know the story. Then I think I hear that Christian centurion tell Julius, his brother officer, all about this Jesus. "Julius," says he, "Christ never did any one any harm.

All he does is to heal the sick and open the eyes of the blind and brush away the lepers' scales. Yes, Julius, his mission is to heal the broken bodies and to cleanse us from all sin."

Captain Julius Pondera. Methinks I can see Captain Julius sitting there in the Roman barracks. His head is resting on his hand. Then I hear him say: "Oh, is Jesus all that? Is his mission only to help the poor and the sick and the suffering? Is his mission to cleanse sinful men from an evil past? How my dear mother would have loved him! How tame are the penalties—the household gods of my old Roman home! Truly, father and mother to the best of their spiritual light made our old home a real virtuous and pure. But, oh, what would mother have been able to do had she had this Christ for her Saviour?" Then methinks I see the centurion anxiously look into Tiberius' face and say: "Captain Tiberius, do you believe that this Jesus will forgive me, even me? Why, my mother died of a broken heart on account of the waywardness and villainy of my youth. Will this Jesus forgive me, even me?" Then I think I see Captain Tiberius place his hand upon Julius' shoulder and say: "Yes, Julius. This Christ can be your Christ. For in my own hearing, after Jesus raised my sick servant, I heard him say to a great crowd of people who were flocking about him near Lake Galilee, 'All that the Father giveth me shall come to me, and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.'"

But again the scene changes. We are now standing at the foot of the cross. This is the crucifixion. Here are the two thieves, the one on the right, the other on the left of the cross which bears the dying Lord. Yonder come the great multitude, sneering and wagging their heads. Here are the soldiers gambling for the garments of the dying Saviour. By a strange coincidence I find that this same Captain Julius, whose conversation we were listening to the other night in the Roman barracks, has been detailed to see that the order of Pilate in reference to the three state criminals is carried out. Methinks I see him standing in the foreground of the crucifixion scene looking up at the face of Jesus. This Roman centurion's countenance has a troubled look. "Is he God?" that countenance seems to say. If he is God, why does he not come down from the cross and save himself, as the scoffers are challenging him to do? Oh, I wish I could say he was my Lord! Then I might go back to Rome and tell my brothers and sisters and old sinful companions about him." As the Roman centurion soliloquizes thus it is about 12 o'clock noon. Suddenly the heavens become as black as midnight. Then there is a booming and a crashing, as though the rocks were being splintered under our feet and the firm mountains were shaking from their foundations. There is a great cry of agony. I hear the Saviour call, "Eli, Eli, Lama Sabachthani!" which is interpreted, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Then I see the Roman commander in fright tremble and crouch as if terror stricken. I see him arise and stand straight up and reach out his hands toward the cross and cry out, "Truly this was the Son of God!"

Another Picture. Of course in one sense this sermon is entirely imaginative. And yet I think there may be more truth in it than many of us believe. As I began it in an imaginative way, so I will end in the same way. When I think of this Roman centurion, I never picture him as simply acknowledging Christ as the Son of God and then going back to his life of sin. I picture him as resigning from the Roman army and returning to the Roman capital. Then I picture him as one of the Christians of old Rome to whom Paul later wrote. Then I picture him as going out to the old homestead, to the pure home of his youth, and telling his brothers and sisters about his new found Christ. Then I picture the persecutions coming. Then I imagine him an old man, bending under the weight of seventy-five years, left strong in faith and in loyalty to Christ. He may have been among the saints in Caesar's household" of whom Paul writes. He may even have been among the Christian martyrs who were burned under Nero. The change would not have been any more extraordinary than that which transformed Saul the persecutor into Paul the apostle. You may say the story is imaginative, but it is not unreasonable.

In the dark catacombs of ancient Rome, where 6,000,000 bodies were entombed, there is a martyr's grave which has on it this epitaph: "While on his knees in prayer before the altar of the true God they took him and led him away to execution." I wonder whose grave that was. I have never heard the name of the martyr who was buried there. I wonder if it was the grave of an old man. I wonder if it was the grave of Captain Julius. I wonder if it was the martyr's grave of the Roman centurion whose company had charge of the crucifixion of Christ and the two thieves in the spring of 30 A. D. It may have been that grave. When the death angel shall come to summon us before the judgment seat of Christ, I would that like that martyr in the catacombs of Rome, he might bid us kneeling "in prayer before the altar of the true God." Then I think that death angel be able to lead us into the eternal life triumphant. Then we shall get stand at the foot of the cross, but we shall be seated upon a throne and wear a crown of eternal and triumphant reward. May God bless this sermon's dream. "Truly this was the Son of God!" Come, let us change the text a little—"Truly this man is and forever shall be the Son of God and our resurrected Saviour and redeeming Lord."

TAKING THE CENSUS

OF SCHOOL CHILDREN IN CHRISTIAN COUNTY.

Arrangements Are Already Made For Holding This Year's Institute.—Two Instructors.

Superintendent W. E. Gray is now sending to the chairman of each county district's board of school trustees the blanks for use in taking the census showing how many people reside in each district between the ages of 6 and 21 years. The chairman of each district takes the census for his district, but gets nothing for his work. This is reverse to city schools, as the enumerators get so many cents for every name procured between those ages. For every name between those ages the state allows out of the commonwealth school fund, so many dollars to each county district, this money going to maintenance of the institutions of education.

Although it is yet many weeks before the Christian County Teachers' Institute will be held here, arrangements are already being made and the session promises to be one of the most interesting and instructive ever held. Contrary to previous institutes, the one this year will have two instructors instead of one. Dr. J. C. Willis, president of the University of Louisville, who did such splendid work last year will be in charge again this year, but he will be assisted by Miss A. W. Westcott, of Minneapolis, who has made quite a reputation as a specialist in primary branches. The institute will be held sometime in July.
